Re: Draft California Water Plan Update 2005.

Dear Mr. Dabbs:

On July 22, 2005, I addressed the aforementioned document. Even though the public review comment period for the Draft, I am enclosing these additional comments.

I am opposed to the use of regional stormwater detention basins for storing water. In the City of Simi Valley, the intention was specifically to detain, not retain, water. The reports on the regional stormwater detention basins stated that these dams don't fall within the jurisdiction of the California Department of Safety of Dams. The Dry Canyon Regional Stormwater Detention Basin's original design has changed to the point where it has to be dug deeper. Yet no public hearings were held when the project first went before the City of Simi Valley City Council, and no follow-up public meetings have taken place on the changes.

Also, the City of Simi Valley stated back around 1996 that it would update its 1980's Water Plan. To date that document has not been updated.

Sir, please note that posted comment number 44 on the CA Water Plan Update 2005 has the incorrect "Received" date. The correspondence could not have been dated 7/22/05 and received 7/10/05.

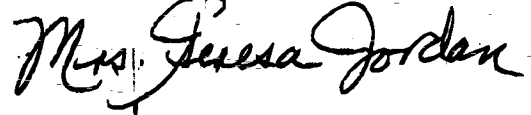

Mr. Dabbs, I notice that my July 22, 2005 letter on the Draft hasn't been posted. It was faxed to Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, and to DWR the same day. Does DWR still have other comments to post?

Mr. Dabbs, I thank the DWR for making the Draft available on its Website, and for making it "printer friendly" instead of file accessibility. How long will the Draft be available on the Website?

Mr. Dabbs, I am formally requesting a copy of Volume 1 and the Highlights summary in hard copy form. I also request a CD with Highlights summary package. What constitutes "cases of special need" to acquire the 5 volumes and Highlight summary? How much would it cost to purchase the entire 5 volumes and Highlight summary? How much to purchase Volume 1 and Highlight summary? How much to purchase the CD and Highlights summary. Please let me as soon as possible. Thank you.

Sincerely,
